Hovel Chenorhokian is a French-Armenian entrepreneur, designer, concept developer and a Diaspora strategist. Descended from the Chenorhokian family (Շնրհօքեան), a distinguished lineage from Aintab that survived the Armenian Genocide, Hovel was born in 1955 in Beirut, Lebanon.

He graduated from the Armenian Evangelical College in Beirut—one of the city's historic centers of educational excellence. He had barely begun his higher education at Haigazian University when he was forced to interrupt his studies due to the outbreak of the Lebanese Civil War, and he settled in France in 1976.

Following in the family tradition of watchmaking, Chenorhokian founded a small company in France that rapidly grew into a mid-sized industrial enterprise with 250 employees and subsidiaries across Europe, North America, and Asia. In 2000, he co-founded AWI Watches (Armenian Watch International), based in Yerevan, Armenia.

From 2010 to 2014, he served as Secretary of the Armenian Jewellers Association \(AJA\), where he played a key role in uniting over 2,500 members from Sydney to Los Angeles. He also co-organized international exhibitions, including the Co-Art exhibition held in Paris in 2013.

Industrious and strategic thinker, Chenorhokian co-founded DiasporArm, a non-aligned platform that seeks to mobilize the vast human and material resources of the Armenian Diaspora, support innovative initiatives, foster synergy through networking, and promote coordinated action across the global Armenian community. The task is great, but as Hovel often repeats, “With faith as small as a mustard seed, we can move mountains.”
